Present

Standard Work Skills Training Session

Think about some of your manufacturing processes. Does everyone perform a certain task the same way, or is there room for interpretation (and therefore error)?

Does your Organization struggle with....

- Excessive time required training new workers
- Inability to meet takt time
- Too many safety related issues with new and experienced workers
- Inconsistent results from training
- Variable cycle times between workers
- Inconsistent quality results

If you answered "yes" to any of these questions, Standard Work Skills training is the course for you.

Participants will learn how to construct Standard Work Skills, which will help define the most efficient methods to manufacture product using available equipment, people and materials. With hands - on facilitation, you will learn to develop Standard Work that depicts the key process points, operator procedures, production sequence, safety issues and quality checks.

If Standard Work Skills are not currently in place, establish a plan and get assistance from Florida MEP.

At this time, only 2 (two) employees from any one company can attend.
